1. Ruled tabulation using spreadsheet software: A ruled table of excursion bookings for Frigatebird Island Excursions Ltd from October to December 2025. It has a merged main heading, two levels of column headings set at oblique and vertical angles, a harmonious teal colour scheme, records sorted in ascending order by excursion and totals calculated with the SUM function. A formula view follows. Software: Microsoft Excel.

2. Financial document using spreadsheet software: An income and expenditure statement for the Calabash Youth Steel Orchestra for the quarter ended 31 December 2025. A formula view follows. Software: Microsoft Excel.

3. Committee documents: A notice of a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Sea Grape Arts Collective, with its agenda. The notice states the place, date and time, the members who should attend and the convenor; the agenda has the seven standard items, with New Business sub-numbered. Software: Microsoft Word.

4. Legal document: A six-month residential lease between Hibiscus Hill Properties Ltd and its tenant. It identifies both parties, sets out nine numbered clauses, includes a schedule of payments that agrees with the clauses and provides signature spaces for the landlord, the tenant and a witness. Software: Microsoft Word.

5. Advanced display: organisational chart: An organisational chart of Frigatebird Island Excursions Ltd showing sixteen positions on four levels and the lines of authority between them, displayed on landscape paper with narrow margins. Software: Microsoft Word (SmartArt Hierarchy layout).

6. Simple display: invitation with a menu: A four-page booklet for the tenth anniversary dinner of Frigatebird Island Excursions Ltd, printed on both sides of one A4 sheet and folded. It contains the invitation with R.S.V.P. details and the menu, framed by an art border. Software: Microsoft Word (Book Fold layout).

7. Mail merge: Letters from the Sea Grape Arts Collective confirming stands at its Art on the Quay exhibition. The main document has merge fields in the inside address, salutation and body; the data source holds eight records; the eight merged letters follow, one to a page. Software: Microsoft Word (Mailings) and Microsoft Excel.

8. Database: A database of the artworks entered for Art on the Quay. It shows the table design (field names, data types, field sizes and primary key), a datasheet of fourteen records, a simple query, a complex query with two criteria and a report grouped by medium. Software: Microsoft Access.

DATABASE DESCRIPTION

The Sea Grape Arts Collective is holding its Art on the Quay exhibition on Saturday, 28 February 2026. The Exhibitions Coordinator needs a database to keep a record of the artworks that exhibitors deliver. For each artwork, she needs the artwork ID, the title, the artist's first name and last name, the medium, the height in centimetres, the date the artwork was received, the price and whether the artwork is framed.

You are required to:

1. Create a database named ART ON THE QUAY and, in it, a table named ARTWORKS with the fields ArtworkID, Title, ArtistFirstName, ArtistLastName, Medium, HeightCm, DateReceived, Price and Framed. Choose a suitable data type and field size for each field, and set ArtworkID as the primary key.
2. Enter the 14 records for the artworks received from 9 February to 20 February 2026.
3. Create a simple query named qryFramed that lists the framed artworks (Framed = Yes), showing ArtworkID, Title, ArtistFirstName, ArtistLastName, Medium and Price.
4. Create a complex query named qryFramedOver500 that lists the framed artworks priced above EC$500.00, so that they can be fitted with security tags.
5. Create a report named rptFramedArtworks from qryFramed, grouped by Medium and sorted by Title, with the title "Framed Artworks for Hanging by Medium: Art on the Quay, 28 February 2026". Show the date and the page number in the page footer.

Slide 1

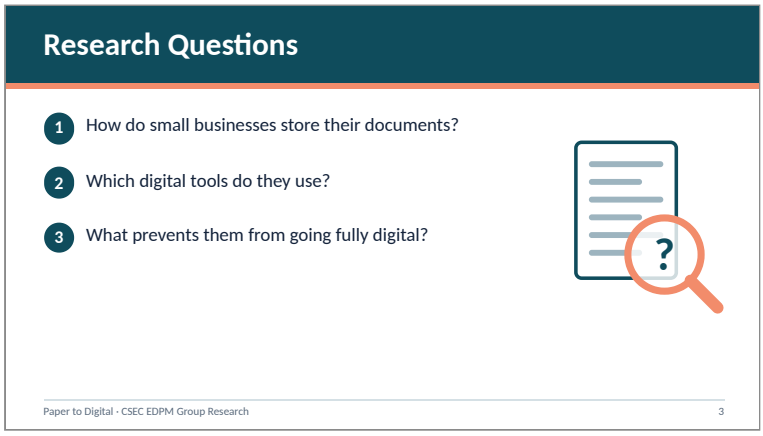

Speaker notes: Good morning. Our group researched how small businesses in Antigua store, share and protect their documents, and whether they are moving from paper to digital systems. Transition: Fade (used on every slide). Animation: the title, then the subtitle, Fade in.

Slide 2

Speaker notes: Every business, however small, produces documents. In Antigua, the hurricane season makes paper records especially easy to lose. Our aim was to find out how small businesses manage their documents and what keeps them from going digital. Transition: Fade. Animation: bullet points Fly In from the left, one at a time.

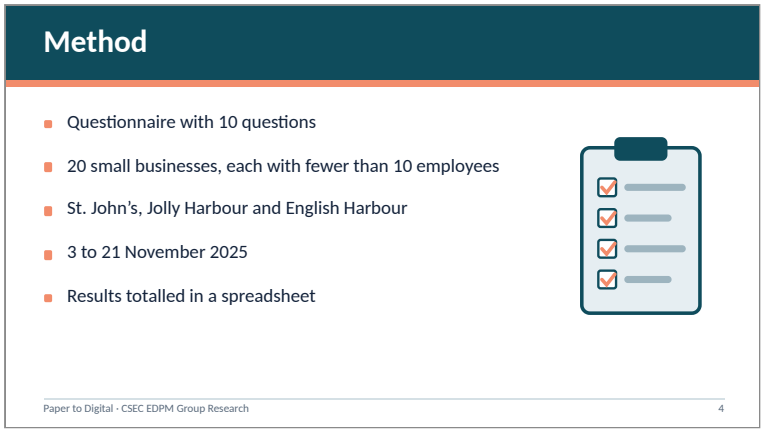

Slide 3

Speaker notes: Three questions guided our research. The first is about storage, the second about the digital tools businesses already use, and the third about the barriers they face. Each finding later in the presentation answers one of these questions. Transition: Fade. Animation: each question Flies In from the left on a click.

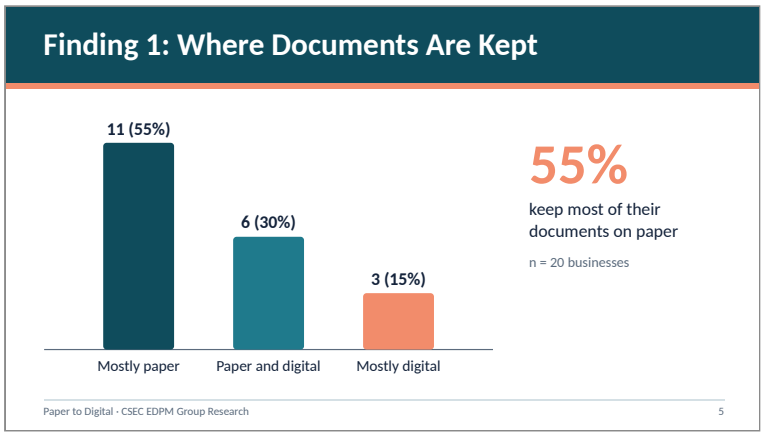

Slide 4

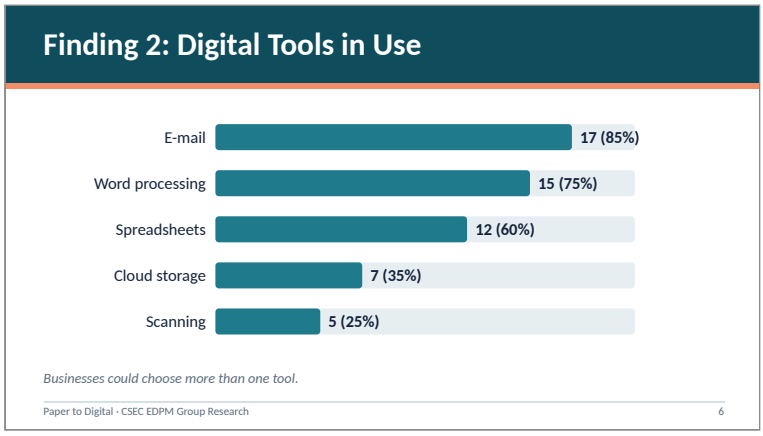

Speaker notes: We delivered a ten-question questionnaire in person to the owner or manager of 20 small businesses and collected the forms between 3 and 21 November 2025. We then totalled the answers in a spreadsheet and drew the charts that follow. Transition: Fade. Animation: bullet points Fly In from the left; the clipboard Zooms in.

Slide 5

Speaker notes: Of the 20 businesses, 11 (55 per cent) keep most of their documents on paper. Another 6 use a mix of paper and digital files, and only 3 are mostly digital. Transition: Fade. Animation: the chart Wipes in from the bottom.

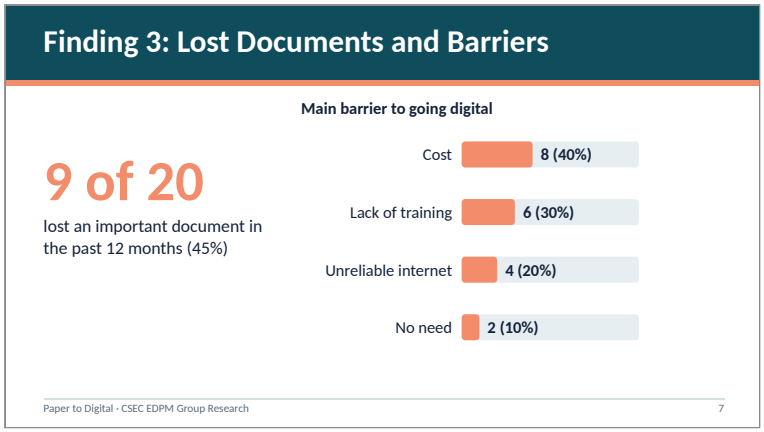

Slide 6

Speaker notes: E-mail is the most common digital tool, used by 17 businesses (85 per cent). However, only 7 businesses (35 per cent) use cloud storage, and only 5 (25 per cent) scan their paper documents. Transition: Fade. Animation: the bars Wipe in from the left, one tool at a time.

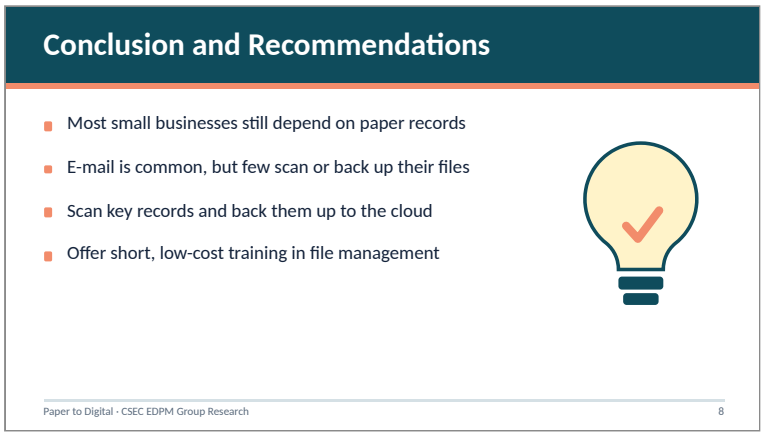

Slide 7

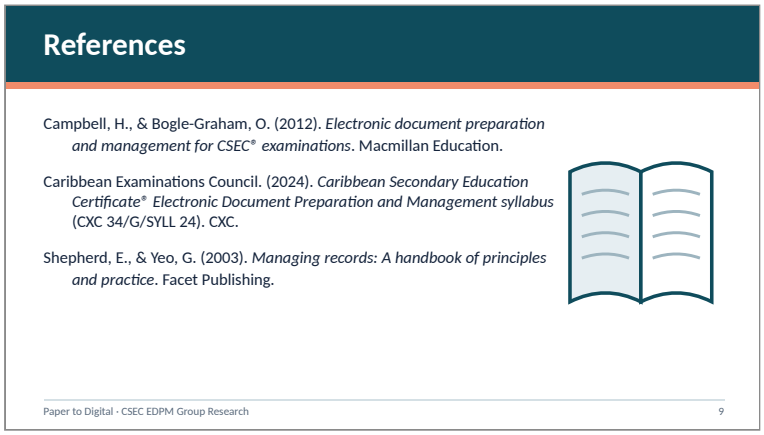

Speaker notes: Of the 20 businesses, 9 (45 per cent) had lost or misplaced an important document in the past twelve months. The main barrier to going digital was cost (8 businesses, 40 per cent), followed by lack of training (6, 30 per cent). Transition: Fade. Animation: the statistic Zooms in, then the chart Wipes in.

Slide 8

Speaker notes: Most small businesses still depend on paper, and many have already lost important documents. We recommend that businesses scan their key records and back them up to the cloud, and that business groups offer short, low-cost training in file management. Transition: Fade. Animation: bullet points Fly In from the left, one at a time.

Slide 9

Speaker notes: These are the sources we used for the research paper and this presentation, listed in APA style. Thank you for listening; we welcome your questions. Transition: Fade. Animation: the references Fade in together, so that they can be read at once.
